The steamer Orifflamme, which left Portland August 5th, arrived this morning.

The United States Grand Jury has ignored 11 complaints for indictment against Messrs Noah Brooks, Thos Shannon, A W Jennings, M Folger, W. Horton, O P. Ballan, Thos Flmorty, Capt Chas Reed and Captain Cranmer, who were accused of owning interests in the bark Jeannette while they held positions as Government officials, also the complaint against Capt Knight of the ship Royal Saxon, charging him with smuggling jewelry into this port, and lastly, the complaint against Alfred A Cohen, President of the Oakland Ferry company, charging him with having prevented Robert Noblet from carrying the mails across the Bay to Oakland; Noblet having a contract with the Government to carry the mails over that route.

The case of Rhen Johnson vs. J. W. Simonton et al. for libel came before the 15th District Court to-day on defendant's demurrer to plaintiff's complaint. Portions of the complaint of the demurrer was argued at length by counsel for defendants. G. W. Tyler appeared in behalf of the plaintiff and made a long argument in support of the sufficiency of his pleadings and contended that the alleged libelous article in the Bulletin referred to the plaintiff as a dealer and vender of poisonous swill milk, although his name was nowhere mentioned in the article. It was directed against a class of men engaged in selling swill milk to the people of this city.

Mary K. Hall has commenced an action by her guardian in the 15th District Court against John Parrott, to recover damages in the sum of $50,000. Plaintiff alleges that she was bitten by a vicious dog belonging to the defendant and kept at his residence on Folsom street. An action was brought at first by the parents of the girl, but they were paid off with a small amount of damages recovered, but as they could not bring another suit for the same case, a guardian was appointed so that the girl might sue in her own name.

The Police Judge has set the examination of Eugene Tucker, accused of the murder of Celina Baucelet, for Monday next at 2 P. M.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 10.—In the case of Mary K. Hall vs Adolph Urger, et al., tried before a jury in the U. S Circuit Court, a verdict was rendered last evening in favor of the plaintiff. The suit was brought to recover possession of a 100 vara lot on the northside of Bryant street. The value of the lot is estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000, and the title to certain other property in the city is said to rest on the same foundation.

John Hall became the owner of the property sued for in 1849, through grant from an alcalde, before 1852 He became insane at the East, and was placed in the Franklin Insane Asylum, near Philadelphia; while in this condition he executed a power of attorney. The plaintiff claimed that he was insane, but the defendant insisted that he executed the instrument during a lucid interval. The case was argued by Hall McAllister for plaintiff, and Col. J. P. Hoge for defendant, at great length, and the charge of the Court to the jury was very elaborate and able. The jury retired and after consulting together about twenty minutes, returned the verdict stated. The case was on trial seven days.

A man reported to Coroner Harris yesterday afternoon that he had discovered the dead body of a man lying on a hillside west of St. Mary's College, about four and a half miles from the city. The Coroner's assistants were dispatched to the place, but found the body so much decomposed that it was deemed not advisable to bring it to the city, and the remains were conveyed directly to Lone Mountain and interred.

The new steamship Great Republic, which recently arrived at this port from New York via Cape Horn, to take her place in the China line of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, will be opened to the inspection of visitors to-morrow and Monday. The new steamer is the largest that ever visited this coast. She sails for Japan and China on the 3d proximo.

In the Fourth District Court to-day, divorces were granted as follows: James Stoddard from Rosa Stoddard; Sarah Eddenmiller from George Eddenmiller.

In the United States District Court, yesterday, Henry Heilbern, plead guilty to the charge of smuggling jewelry into this port and was fined $50. The jewelry, worth about $2,000, has been condemned and will be sold by the U. S. Marshal.

In the case of Louisa Gordon, actress, against Richard Riley, manager, the Fifteenth District Court to-day ordered judgment in favor of plaintiff for $250 by default of defendant.

The jury in the case of R. H. Taylor vs. Horace Howes, action for $50,000 damage for slander were out all day yesterday, and were finally discharged, having failed to agree on a verdict.

ENGLISH CRITICISM ON BIERSTADT.—In the course of a long notice of Bierstadt's "Storm in the Rocky Mountains," now on exhibition in England, the Saturday Review gives the following critical estimate of the artist.

The qualities which strike us in Mr. Bierstadt as an artist are, first, a great audacity, justified by perfect ability to accomplish all that he intends. He is not a mere copyist of nature, but an artist having definite artistic intentions, and carrying them out with care and resolution. Observe, for instance, how strictly in this work everything it arranged to enhance effect. It strikes you as a work of art, not a literal reproduction of nature; indeed, the artificial used are sometimes too evident. But in an age when some hold the theory that art may be dispensed with, and that mere copyism is enough, we welcome a man like Bierstadt, who, though as devoted a lover of the grandest scenes in nature as any painter who ever lived, is at the same time given to plotting and planning for purely artistic ends. He is always trying for luminous gradations and useful oppositions, and reaches what he tries for. The excess of his effort after these things may be repugnant to some critics, because it is so obvious, and seems incompatible with the simplicity and self-oblivion of the highest artist natures. We believe, however, that in an art of this kind, where the object is to produce a powerful impression of overwhelming natural grandeur, a painter must employ all the resources possible to him. This may be condemned as scene-painting, and we should only be too happy to see more of the same kind. The storm cloud is a success, especially the toppling crest of it, with the lurid reflected light under it. No picture that we have ever seen has more entirely conveyed a sense of natural sublimity, and there is so much to study that the spectator is detained before it for a long time. The foreground and lake are not new to us, as painting, being simply German foreground art of the best kind, but the cloud is new and audacious; and the relation between the base of the mountain, far away beyond the distant lake, in the dark cave of cloud, and the brilliant white peak in the blue heaven, apparently nearer than the foot of the mountain and not at all belonging to it, is as true as it is rare in art. Mr. Bierstadt's picture is full of courage and ability, and his nature, which has a strong grasp of realities, is well fitted for the kind of work he has undertaken. The least agreeable quality in him is an excess of method and artifice, but we are not disposed to lay much stress on such a fault in his case, because without it he would never be carried safely through labors so formidable as this.

Men of all parties are pretty deep in the canvass down in California. They had a torch-light procession (Union), at Auburn not long ago, and among the transparencies were the following:

"As black as the blackest was Haight all his life, until he married a Copperhead wife;" "Haight was Abolition to the very back-bone until he got married and had slaves of his own;" "H. H. H., Hunt your Hole Haight;" "G. C. G., Game Cock Gorham;" "We love the Union and Haight snakes;" "Jim Anthony swears that he won't hush, he's found his man, and his hand is flush."

Views of the Confederate General Barksdale, of Mississippi.

The Jackson (Miss.) Clarion, edited by E. Barksdale, who, a Southern paper says, "was a General in the Confederate army, that fought like a Roman and surrendered like a god," is strongly urging reconstruction on the present plan. We make some extracts from his recent editorials:

The present condition of uncertainty as to her future Government paralyzes industry, destroys confidence, keeps away capital and reduces values of every description, but the necessaries of life, to a mere song.

It must be remembered that when the armies of the Confederate States surrendered, the Government of the United States acquired the power to dictate the terms of reconstruction, and that there is no instrumentality, short of Divine agency, which can take the work of reconstruction from the hands of the present Congress.

The radicals have more strength now than they had in the Thirty-ninth Congress, which submitted the fourteenth amendment, and subsequently to its rejection by the South passed the present enabling Acts.

We repeat, then, that though these measures are not such as the Southern people would have dictated, if they had possessed the power to prescribe the terms of their readmission, yet they have every reason to be convinced that they are more favorable than those which will be enforced, if they decline to reconstruct under them. The fact is so manifest that we take it for granted that a large majority of the white people of the State are in favor of improving the opportunity offered while they have the privilege of voting.

When the war closed the Republicans were in a small majority compared to their present overwhelming vote. The ill judged, though well meant, plan of Johnson, to recognize the excluded States without authority of Congress, produced a quarrel between the executive and legislative departments, which resulted in giving to the latter the perfectly overshadowing and irresistible control it now has. It reduced the former to the dimensions of a dwarf, it increased the latter to the proportions of a giant. And as time and the unwillingness of the sectional troubles prolong the unfortunate strife, the contrast, under the influence of popular sentiment in the Northern States, becomes correspondingly greater.

Unfortunately for the South she permitted herself to be drawn into the struggle and to become a partisan of the Executive. And she has by this ill-advised step contributed nothing towards his support, but has thrown obstacles in the way of the settlement of her difficulties. His arm is paralized; and she lies the helpless victim of military despotism, which Robert J. Walker, himself, a zealous supporter of the war against her, admits exceeds the despotism of Egypt, Syria, Turkey and Russia.

Even this iron rule many of her people have hailed as a boon and prayed that it may be continued indefinitely in dread that something worse may come. This apprehension may well be indulged if the pending reconstruction measures of Congress be understood to the people of the ex-Confederate States, are rejected. From military rule they will in that sad event, pass under another rule far more terrible—the rule of a class which has heretofore borne no part in the responsibilities of Government, docile, patient, tractable and kindly disposed now, but who will, when invested with supreme control by the Government, under the lash of wicked men, find in the very act of the abolition of these measures because of their repugnance to their own interests a motive for the most vindictive legislation. The clamor will then be for confiscation of tax on persons, taxation on property exclusively, division of

ENGLISH CRITICISM ON BIERSTADT.—In the course of a long notice of Bierstadt's "Storm in the Rocky Mountains," now on exhibition in England, the Saturday Review gives the following critical estimate of the artist

The qualities which strike us in Mr Bierstadt as an artist are, first a great audacity justified by perfect ability to accomplish all that he intends He is not a mere copyist of nature, but an artist having definite artistic intentions, and carrying them out with care and resolution. Observe, for instance, how strictly in this work everything is arranged to enhance effect It strikes you as a work of art, not a literal reproduction of nature, indeed, the artifices used are sometimes too evident But in an age when some hold the theory that art may be dispensed with, and that mere copyism is enough, we welcome a man like Bierstadt, who, though as devoted a lover of the grandest scenes in nature as any painter who ever lived, is at the same time given to plotting and planning for purely artistic ends He is always trying for luminous gradations and useful oppositions, and reaches what he tries for The excess of his effort after these things may be repugnant to some critics, because it is so obvious, and seems incompatible with the simplicity and self oblivion of the highest artist natures We believe, however, that in an art of this kind, where the object is to produce a powerful impression of overwhelming natural grandeur, a painter must employ all the resources possible to him This may be condemned as scene painting, and we should only be too happy to see more of the same kind The storm cloud is a success, especially the toppling crest of it, with the lurid reflected light under it. No picture that we have ever seen has more entirely conveyed a sense of natural sublimity, and there is so much to study that the spectator is detained before it for a long time The foreground and lake are not new to us, as painting, being simply German foreground art of the best kind, but the cloud is new and audacious, and the relation between the base of the mountain, far away beyond the distant lake, in the dark cave of cloud, and the brilliant white peak in the blue heaven, apparently nearer than the foot of the mountain and not at all belonging to it, is as true as it is rare in art Mr Bierstadt's picture is full of courage and ability, and his nature, which has a strong grasp of realities, is well fitted for the kind of work he has undertaken The least agreeable quality in him is an excess of method and artifice, but we are not disposed to lay much stress on such a fault in his case, because without it he would never be carried safely through labors so formidable as this.

Men of all parties are pretty deep in the canvass down in California They had a torch light procession (Union), at Auburn not long ago, and among the transparencies were the following

"As black as the blackest was Haight all his life, until he married a Copperhead wife," Haight was Abolition to the very back-bone, until he got married and had slaves of his own," "H R H, Hunt your Hole Haight," "G O G, Game Cock Gorham," "We love the Union and Haight snakes," "Jim Anthony swears that he won't hush, he's found his man, and his hand is flush."

Views of the Confederate General Barksdale, of Mississippi

The Jackson (Miss) Clarion, edited by E Barksdale, who, a Southern paper says, "was a General in the Confederate army, that fought like a Roman and surrendered like a god," is strongly urging reconstruction on the present plan We make some extracts from his recent editorials

The present condition of uncertainty as to her future Government paralyzes industry, destroys confidence, keeps away capital and reduces values of every description, but the necessaries of life, to a mere song

It must be remembered that when the armies of the Confederate States surrendered, the Government of the United States acquired the power to dictate the terms of reconstruction, and that there is no instrumentality, short of Divine agency, which can take the work of reconstruction from the hands of the present Congress

The radicals have more strength now than they had in the Thirty ninth Congress, which submitted the fourteenth amendment, and subsequently to its rejection by the South passed the present Reconstruction Acts

We repeat, then, that though these measures are not such as the Southern people would have dictated, if they had possessed the power to prescribe the terms of their readmission, yet they have every reason to be convinced that they are more favorable than those which will be enforced, if they decline to reconstruct under them The fact is so manifest that we take it for granted that a large majority of the white people of the State are in favor of improving the opportunity offered while they have the privilege of voting

When the war closed the Republicans were in a small majority compared to their present overwhelming vote The ill judged, though well meant, plan of Johnson, to recognize the excluded States without authority of Congress, produced a quarrel between the executive and legislative departments, which resulted in giving to the latter the perfectly overshadowing and irresistible control it now has It reduced the former to the dimensions of a dwarf it increased the latter to the proportions of a giant And as time and the unsettlement of the sectional troubles prolong the unfortunate strife the contrast, under the influence of popular sentiment in the Northern States, becomes correspondingly greater

Unfortunately for the South she permitted herself to be drawn into the struggle and to become a partisan of the Executive And she has by this ill advised step contributed nothing towards his support, but has thrown obstacles in the way of a settlement of her difficulties His arms is paralized, and she has the helpless victim of military despotism, which Robert J Walker, himself, a zealous supporter of the war against her, admits exceeds the despotism of Egypt, Syria, Turkey and Russia

Even this iron rule many of her people have hailed as a boon and prayed that it may be continued indefinitely in dread that something worse may come This apprehension may well be indulged if the pending reconstruction measures Congress has tendered to the people of the several States, are rejected. From military rule the transition is to that end event, pass under another rule far more terrible—the rule of a class which has been borne no part in the responsibilities of government, docile, patient, tractable and kindly disposed now, but who will, when invested with supreme control by the Government, under the influence of wicked men, find in the very act of execution of these measures because of their hostility to their own interests a motive for the most destructive legislation. The clamor will then be for confiscation of tax on persons, taxation of property exclusively, division of estates or land [illegible] Agrarian schemes will be hatched and [illegible] frightful existence

Contemplating those horrors, the reasons against acceptance of the [illegible] ment, which will assure protection [illegible] declare that they will be resisted by force They will cry havoc, and unleash the dogs of war! civil war! extermination war? Is this your hope of success? The statement that overthrow the combined power of the Confederate States when consolidated into one head and wielded with a united purpose [illegible] recognized and pledged itself to maintain Government which you will vainly attempt to displace Where, we repeat, will the disparity talk of a "war of races," as if it were a mere holiday sport, do you anchor your hope of deliverance in a coup de main with a race as prime as yourselves, armed with authority and backed up by the whole power of the Federal Government?

A fearful responsibility will rest upon the heads of those rash counselors who would precipitate the country into an abyss so fearful to contemplate, and who propose to escape from it by a course worse than impolitic measures which they suggest as a last resort

Referring to ex United States Senator Hill's "Notes on the Situation," columns of which are flooding Georgia, Barksdale says

The newspapers are publishing a series of articles on the situation, by B H Hill, of Georgia. We find nothing in those letters which has not been presented previously in better style by the anti reconstruction journals of the day In taking his position against the settlement of the sectional strife, Hill is true to his destiny Since Governor Joe Brown defeated him for Governor, some years ago, he has laid it down as a rule of his conduct to take

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 12, 1867.

Pacific University.

We learn by letter from Forest Grove that the term commences in the different departments of Pacific University on Wednesday of this week. The prospective attendance is considerably beyond that of any former year. The Faculty at this time consists of President Marsh, and Professors Collier and Marsh, all of whom will devote their whole time to the work. In the College proper, a full Faculty of five will soon be provided, to be engaged exclusively in the instruction of the College classes. Arrangements are being made which, it is believed, will enable this Institution to offer facilities for education fully equal to the increasing demands of our rising State.

Considerable changes will be made in the management of the Academic Department this fall. L. O. Stevens, A. M., is expected from the East to take charge of this department; and until his arrival Professor Marsh will supply the place. Mr. Stevens will have two or more assistants, and a different system from that heretofore followed will be adopted. It is intended hereafter to make the Academic Department inclusive of the Preparatory and a first class Academy, suited to meet the wants of both those who are not disposed to take a regular collegiate course. With this idea in view, Algebra, Preparatory Latin and Greek, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, etc., will be taught in this Department.

The effort which is being put forth at Forest Grove is, as we have had occasion to state heretofore, one of the two educational enterprises of Oregon which promise and deserve success. It is an effort designed to meet a most important want, and no one who takes an interest in the growth or prosperity of the State can be indifferent to this and kindred undertakings. Some are disposed to carp at the location of the college at Forest Grove; but there are disadvantages in the location which might be named, and there are also advantages in it which cannot be ignored. It is difficult to see why any young man who is proposing to spend four or six years in study should object to the influence of this institution as too retired a place, or why anybody should consider a point so far out of the way which is distant only a few miles from the river; and of almost the only business of young men there are those who find the comparative retirement an advantage; and certainly a college which is already well established, and which is of no great danger of obscuration from the press, by being a little distant from the more important places in the State.

Union Soldiers Repudiated.

The Salem Statesman, as a representative paper of the Democracy, points out in a most emphatic manner the efforts that are making to certain elements in the interest the Democracy to doubtful States, and "policy dodges" for the sake of success. It states it distinctly understood that the approaching Presidential election in the party must be one in which no man who has not made himself obnoxious and odious by his attachment to the Union and his zeal and ability in preserving it, can repose its "policy" friends over the country in this manner

"We, in some of our exchanges, perceive that they we have no right to question, [illegible] proclivities that rather squint in the direction of an unworthy policy dodge at the next election. They seem to concede, for the nominee of the Democracy must be a soldier, that Sherman is the most available. Sherman is a statesman on our ticket as well as U. S. Grant. Why not take the little corporal? His record of tyranny greatly in advance of either of the others. We concede that Sherman is far ahead of Grant as a statesman and soldier, yet what [illegible] the Democratic party upon Sherman to be upon the party?

It is a pertinent question and one that will be answered. With the single exception of Sherman has done the Republican party more harm than any man living. He took a part in the work of subjugating a wing of the organization, for which he can never be forgiven by the Northern section of the party. The [illegible] will therefore be [illegible] answered 'What claim has the party to Sherman or he upon the party?'

The Statesman sustains its protest in this style

"We very much whether a convention to represent the Democracy would dare put forth such a name as Sherman's for its support of the party. We know one thing positively, and that is, that a most disgraceful defeat would be the result of such deceitful and hypocritical work, and the Convention would be regarded as a farce upon the party. The country needs not a Military hero as President; we have too many of this class in power now. The ranks of the Democratic party contain many true men, and from them the selection should be made. With a true and able statesman as our candidate and an open and frank avowal of principles we shall meet with success, by an attempt at deception and hypocrisy, defeat and disgrace which we shall so richly merit will be our reward. Let not the follies of the past be repeated.

It is probable that if it were proposed to nominate a military hero of the late Confederacy for the Presidency and there were a reasonable prospect of his election the Review would have no objection whatever to accepting a soldier as its candidate. Its protest is against a Union soldier. For, if it cannot be Sherman, it cannot accept any of our military heroes, as he is the one who differs most widely from the Republican party. And as the nomination of a Union soldier would be "a stigma upon the Democratic party," it would be an easy thing for that party to do now by the honor of nominating a Confederate soldier. If one can be found who has not given his assent to the Congressional policy of reconstruction.

First Class Democratic Editor Discovered.

An indigent individual who is distrustful of his ability to stand up against negro competition, if the blacks are allowed an even chance with him, writes from Dallas to the Herald respecting Senator Williams' speech at that place, pitting up Democratic arguments against the Senator's positions with a felicity and skill so far surpassing the best efforts of old "Ephraim Smooth" that the wonder is this ancient personage does not die of downright envy. In the first paragraph we are told that "Williams lied." In the second paragraph it is stated with convincing emphasis that Williams lied on this point, as usual," and again that "Williams is a lying demagogue." In the third paragraph the same argument is used with even greater advantage. "Williams lied," and if he and his co-workers succeed in their schemes, the Government is at an end. If they do my best wish for them is that the curses of the people may follow them to the grave—over the river Styx, and make their bones ache in hell." In the last paragraph, the whole is clinched by a statement that "Williams told another lie," and that "G. H. Williams, Senator from Oregon, is a lying creature." This, as a specimen of Democratic argument, is admirable. The capabilities of the Democratic intellect were never exhibited to better advantage. The editor of the "leading organ" of the Oregon Democracy is fairly outdone in the use of his own favorite line of argument. A rival writer is found who calls an opponent "a liar" at least twice to his once. Let this rising genius be promoted at once to the editorship of a Democratic newspaper. A person who exhibits such talents for a position of this kind ought to be provided without delay with the means of making them useful to his party. Give him an "organ" to grind on!

LETTERS FROM THE INTERIOR OF THE STATE.

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

ASHLAND, Aug. 4th, 1867.

At Dardinelles, eleven miles north of Jacksonville, is the beginning of one of the prettiest valleys in Oregon. It is about 40 miles long, and from two to twelve miles wide, and runs in a northwest and south-easterly direction across the country. The face of the valley is beautifully diversified with level and undulating lands; with broad prairies and sparsely timbered groves of oak and pine; with voluptuous hills, and crystal streams gushing from the surrounding mountains. There is, perhaps, no richer land in the State than that found in this valley; and where is the scenery any finer than here?

JACKSONVILLE

Is situated near the foothills on the west side of the valley, and is the largest town south of Albany, containing about 1,000 inhabitants. It is the centre of trade, for the surrounding agricultural and mineral districts. The town, though rather dull at present, exhibits marks of enterprise and prosperity. The streets and sidewalks are very good, and there are many fine residences, and a number of good brick stores and business houses. The goods, groceries, &c., from abroad, used in this county, are brought in by way of Crescent city, at a cost of about $100, per ton, for transportation, and any thing that is shipped away from here is subject to the same enormous tax. Hence, it is not surprising that the people of this locality are clamorous for a railroad.

In going from Jacksonville to

ASHLAND,

Sixteen miles south-east, we pass through Gasburg—once a flourishing little town, but now a dilapidated village with vacant houses falling into ruins. It is said to be the haunt of fever and ague, caused by the stagnant water of that vicinity. Ashland is located on Bear creek, in a very healthful and pleasant place near the Southern end of the valley. It contains a grist mill, saw mill and marble factory now in operation, and the Rogue River Woolen Manufacturing Co. are erecting their factory building. The stone wall foundation is already laid, and the frame work will be ready to raise in a few days. This enterprise will give a new impetus to the town and surrounding county, and will doubtless prove a "success" to the Company, because it stands in the midst of the best wool growing district in the State. The machinery is to be propelled by the water of Bear creek.

Mr. J. H. Russell of this place is manufacturing marble slabs from marble obtained in the vicinity. The marble is of an excellent quality—beautiful, and of a peculiar formation. It is different from any I ever saw. It is translucent, very hard and appears to be a mass of large crystals cemented together. When highly polished, it gleams in the sunlight almost like diamonds. His saw is run by water power, and so hard is the marble that the saw only penetrates about three inches in a day. So it takes many days to saw up a block.

Yesterday I visited the farm of Hon. L. Applegate, where I found much to please and interest me. Mr. A. irrigates his land, and now it is as green as spring, while the surrounding country is parched and barren. The luxuriance of his corn-fields, vines and vineyard, almost made me fancy that I was in the Mississippi valley again. Here I found an abundance of ripe plums and pears, the first I had seen this season. There stands in his yard several large oak trees, with Catawba grape vines clambering over their tops, just loaded with immense clusters of grapes. As this valley is subject to extremer drouth than the Willamette, it needs irrigating. There has not been a drop of rain here for three months, and it may be three more before they have any. I found here Hon. J. Waggoner and Capt. McCall, whose kindness and hospitality I cannot forget.

P. W. G.

Governor Woods in California.

YREKA, Aug. 4th, 1867.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Siskiyou county has always been one of the closest in this State, success changing alternately from one banner to the other. Our first Union victory was in 1863, when the Democracy were routed, horse, foot and dragoon, the entire Union ticket being elected, though by only forty-five majority. In 1864, after a hotly contested fight, the Copperheads succeeded in obtaining a majority of twenty-eight for McClellan. The succeeding year, after the hardest fight ever made in the county, the Union party again proved victorious, electing their whole ticket with but one exception, although with such reduced majorities as to leave the Democrats strong hope for a victory in the present contest. You may be sure that the arrival among us of such a champion of the right as is Governor Woods, was hailed with great rejoicing, and he immediately opened the campaign by giving the Democrats some of the most telling and deadly shots ever delivered from the rostrum in California. His oratory is of that peculiar and effective style, which, while it possesses all the fire and force necessary to rouse enthusiasm to its highest pitch, yet never makes use of any expression which can offend the feelings of those whose principles he assails. His arguments fall like solid shot among the Copperheads, who, conscious of the fact that there truth must be admitted, either keep out of the way or else resort to personal abuse to answer the propositions they find it impossible to contest.

After addressing the people of Fort Jones, on Wednesday evening, he on Thursday evening spoke to the largest mass meeting which has assembled in this city for many years. The Governor was greeted with three rousing cheers on his appearance, and for two hours did he hold his audience spell-bound, except when his eloquent sentiments and telling points were responded to by the cheers of his listeners. The Civil Rights Bill, the Freedmen's Bureau Bill, and all the reconstruction acts of Congress were taken up, clearly explained and fairly defended, and that, too, in such a manner as to defy contradiction. At the close of his speech he appealed to his hearers to stand by the Union tickets and be satisfied of nothing short of an overwhelming and glorious victory over the foes of freedom and the Union.

The Governor, in company with Hon. Jno. P. Jones, Union nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, and Hon. David Belden, goes south from here and will speak at San Francisco and all the principal points in the State.

Wherever he goes he carries consternation to the camp of the Copperheads, and warms the hearts of Union men by his enthusiasm. While he is thus doing a great work for the cause of truth and justice in this State, he is also, by his genial social qualities and gentlemanly bearing, making hosts of warm personal friends, whose kindest wishes will follow him on his return to the State which has so highly and deservedly honored him.

CANYON CITY NEWS.

The Mountaineer, of Saturday, has the following:

A Mr. Wood left Canyon City a week ago for the Meadows, to prospect for hay. On arriving in that vicinity he unsaddled his horse and turned him out, and leaving his saddle on the ground took his Henry rifle and laid in the shade near the creek to take a sleep, about a hundred yards from where his saddle was left laying. In a short time he heard the report of a rifle, and looking around he discovered a small party of Indians firing at his saddle, they probably supposing he was laying there. He commenced firing at the Indians, and succeeded in killing two. He was protected in such a manner that it was impossible for the Indians to know how many whites there was in the brush. The Indians retreated, leaving three dead on the field.

Canyon City was fired in several places on the night of the 5th inst. No arrests had been made up to the time of leaving of the mail. The business of the city was improving. The new diggings on the Malheur are reported as paying well. No Indians have been seen, excepting those mentioned above, for a long time.

GOOD FOR MARY.—A Hartford (Conn.) girl, named Mary A. Mills, twenty one years old, and a graduate of Billingham Seminary, at Vernon, a year ago, has made for herself an assured business in New York as a real estate and life insurance agent, clearing last year $5,000. She is smart, thoroughly conversant with the intricacies of a commercial transactions, and lives in dashing style. At present she has on her hands for settlement an estate involving over $150,000.

A SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—A fatal accident of a singular character occurred at Orient (L. I.) recently. It appears that John B. Brown was awakened in the night by his cattle, which had broken into his drove yard. He went out to drive them back, when he ran with his whole force against a stake that had been driven in the ground in a slanting direction. The point of the stake struck Brown in the stomach with so much force that he died from the effects of his injuries.

Genuine Democracy.

Abbott, of the Confederate Democrat says "he has ever been free and outspoken;—he was so during the war." Yes; our old files of the Pike County Democrat bear witness to this fact. The following was his platform during the war, written by his own hand, and published in the Pike county paper of January 22d, 1863. Though we have printed most of it before, it will bear reproducing, as it states fully and fairly the position of his party during the war. Here is the "outspoken" document:

I. We believe the war will end substantially in the next six months. It may possibly be prolonged a year, but we do not believe it. Active warlike operations will cease, a treaty will be entered into, but guerrillas will continue to perpetrate raids for months, afterward, despite all restraint arising from treaty obligations.

II. The Confederate States will achieve their Independence. They will accomplish the object for which they are fighting. Their independence will be acknowledged by European Powers and by the Federal Government, and for a while they will go on their way rejoicing.

III. A separation having thus been effected, a question will arise between the Eastern and Western States. We believe the latter States will insist upon a separation from from the East. We for one, do not wish to be tied on to the East. We should be bowers of wood and drawers of water for them just so long as our connection with them shall remain unbroken.

IV. A separation having been effected, either peaceably or otherwise, the question will arise as to what the Western States will do—whether they will form a separate Government or unite with the South. Their most fixed interests will lead it to the South. Whether they will or not will depend very much upon circumstances.

This is sufficiently "free and outspoken." We are desirous that seatous Democrats shall have no cause of complaint against Abbott because of his supposed unsoundness, and therefore we cheerfully testify to his standing as a Democrat, and cite the above to prove his orthodoxy.

Some idea of the extent of the peach crop this season in Delaware, may be obtained from the estimates now being made by the railroad company, which is to carry them to market. It is thought that the yield in Kent county alone, will be 800,000 baskets. This is exclusive of that portion lying along the bay and creeks, which has its natural outlet by steamboat and sailing vessels. In 1854, the year noted for its heavy crop, there were shipped from Smyrna, 70,000, baskets. This year the railroad company gave the quota of Smyrna at 200,000.

RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT!

THE MOST REMARKABLE DISCOVERY EVER MADE!

Will Cure All Pains in a Few Minutes!

Read the Certificates:

RHEUMATISM CURED!

PORTLAND, August 10th, 1867.

I HAVE SUFFERED A LONG TIME WITH RHEUmatic Pains, and until now have found nothing to relieve me. To-day Mr. J. G. Rennick called at my store and assured me that he could cure me in a few minutes. I thought he was mistaken, and laughed at him, but found to my surprise that a few moments after the application of the SITKA LINIMENT, I was relieved of my pains, and I am now improving very fast. I now believe it will cure me in a few days. For further information call at my store, No. 132 First street.

F. WEGNER.

SPRAINED WRIST CURED.

PORTLAND, August 10, 1867.

I was at Mr. Wegner's store on Saturday, August 10th, and seeing the magic effect of J. G. RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, in his case, concluded to try it on my wrist which has been sprained for some time. I found relief inside of FIVE MINUTES from its application, and it is now perfectly well. My wrist was so swelled I could not shut my fingers. I believe it will cure any pain in a short time. I will give any further particulars to whoever calls on me.

VINCENT McCULLOUGH,

Corner of Fifth and College streets.

Tumor Removed!

PORTLAND, August 10th, 1867.

I have used McDOUGALL'S SITKA LINIMENT for pain and swelling of the gum and cheek. I had a large tumor forming on the gum which arose from killing the nerve in my tooth and caused me a dreadful pain which prevented me from sleep for several nights. I applied the Liniment, and to my surprise, it removed the lump and eased the pain so that it is now as well as the other cheek. My cheek was fearfully swollen. This was done in the presence of two witnesses.

I. MITCHELL.

I was present and know the above to be true, and am willing to swear to it. L. QUIVEY.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We clip the following from the Enterprise of the 10th Colonel W. L. White was chosen to fill the chair of W. C. T., at the late election for officers of Willamette Lodge, No 16, in this city ...Ladies connected with the M. E. Church of this city will give a benefit at Koster's Hall, on Tuesday evening next, for the purpose of raising funds to assist in defraying the expenses of repairing the church edifice and parsonage ...It is gratifying to us to note that a new ferry boat is in course of construction in this place, to supply a want long felt for safer means of transportation across the river here.....The Register and Receiver at this place, during the month of July last disposed of the following amount of public lands, viz by donation certificates, 14,164 80-100 acres; homestead entries, 1,801 40-100, cash sales, 927 76-100. Total, 15,291 4 100 .... On Monday last Capt. George A. Gesan, of this city, ran a narrow escape of losing his life, by being wound up by his clothing in some machinery of the P. T. Co.'s warehouse. He had been reaching up to put a belt on a pulley, when the skirt of his linen duster caught in a cog wheel, winding the garment into such a strong cord that it required all the strength he possessed to free himself .....On Wednesday last Mr. Wm Barlow, of this city, received from Mr. Young, of Portland, a splendid California marble monument, nicely polished, standing nearly five feet in height, to mark the last resting spot of his deceased little daughter, Virginia A. The top part of the monument has the likeness of Virginia inserted in a small octagon shaped piece of marble. The picture is set in from the back and securely fastened, the piece then being dovetailed into the front of the monument, making it perfectly water and air tight. Below the picture is a nicely carved hand, pointing upward.

A GOOSE STORY.—"You haven't more sense than a goose" is a sentence often used to convey a gentle intimation that the speaker's opinion of the intellectual endowments of the person spoken to, is not an extremely high one. Reasoning backward, the conclusion is gained that a goose has very little sense, and as a general rule the conclusion is correct. All general rules, however, have their exceptions, and so have geese. The geese of which we are about to speak, is decidedly an exceptional goose. On Third street in a hydrant fitted with a stop-cock which, fortunately for the geese in that neighborhood, leaks a little, forming a slight pool of water on the ground by its base. In this pool, a goose was wallowing, yesterday, and reaching up its bill to drink the water dripping from the faucet. This, however, was very slow enjoyment and rather tantalising to the fellow geese which stood by. Finally, one of them, after a reflective survey of the situation, walked deliberately to the hydrant, and stretching its neck up to the faucet gave it a jerk and a turn with as sic which said, "No bothehones here, if you please." The faucet, of course, gushed forth a liberal stream of water which soon formed a considerable pool; whereat all the geese in that neighborhood set up a cackle of delight and "waded in." All of which proves that some geese have more sense than they get credit for.

RECORDER'S COURT.—At ten o'clock Saturday morning, the matter of contest between H. L. Hoyt and A. Rosenblatt, as to the right of the respective parties to be recognized as the Marshal of the city, was heard by the Recorder, Hill and Stout appearing for Hoyt, and Page for Rosenblatt. The Recorder decided that he had no jurisdiction in the premises, except to elect to whom he should deliver process for service. Mr. Hoyt being in possession of the office, he was de facto, the Marshal, and the Recorder said he should deliver the processes of the court to him.

Beets, charged with larceny by stealing a saddle, was discharged. The complaining witness having failed to appear, he was charged with the costs of the trial

Hoe Choy and Pong Go, two Chinamen charged with keeping a bawdy house on the corner of Alder and Second streets, were discharged, for want of proof.

Terrence Quinn, charged with larceny of a boat belonging to A. M. Lovejoy, was held to answer in the sum of $500.

Jas. Mullen, for breaking in a door of a house on Second street, was sentenced to confinement in the jail for thirty days.

THE SPIRITUAL SEANCES AT ORO FINO HALL.—During several evenings of last week, Madam Foye interested rather large audiences at Oro Fino Hall, with some of the "tests" of spiritualism. The manifestations were of such a character as to astonish some of the natives; but we have not heard that any of the skeptics in the city have as yet weakened. That Mrs. Foye is gifted with something different from the ordinary capabilities of men and women, is unquestionable; but that she is the medium through which spirits of another world, communicate with the living, we must be permitted to doubt. Thus far here she has given no "tests" more remarkable than have been seen hundreds of times, without convincing well balanced minds, and none to induce more than wonder in the minds of her spectators. Her management of the seances, however, has proven a financial success to the proprietor and, we suppose, her further tour through the country will be no less so.

AS SEEN AT VICTORIA.—The Victoria Colonist of Aug. 1st has the following account of the meteor of July 31st:

"A brilliant meteor was observed last evening, at 20 minutes past 9 o'clock. It commenced at a point some two degrees below Venus, which was about six degrees above the southwestern horizon, and travelled a distance of fully eighty degrees in a few seconds. Viewing the meteor visitor from Day Day bridge, it appeared about about 9 inches in diameter. It started with three blue lights and then quickly united in one blue ball of fire; when about one-half the distance had been accomplished it separated once more, only to come together again across from each other, and emitting a long tailed yellow fire disappeared. Its course was from southeast to northwest. Its brilliancy was unequalled by any previous meteoric display in this latitude."

A MAMMOTH NEWSPAPER.—We were, yesterday, shown a copy of the largest newspaper, probably, ever published. It is entitled, The Constellation, and was published by George Roberts, at New York, on the 4th of July, 1865. The size of the paper is seventy by one hundred and four columns, each forty-eight inches in length. The unceasing labor of forty persons for two months was required to produce the single issue. Four of the eight pages are pictorial; the other four are mostly solid printed matter. The proprietor printed 22 000 copies, all of which were called for; and yet the enterprise was a failure. The copy shown was purchased by Mr. Frank Easterbrook, of this office, who has preserved it as a curiosity in the newspaper world.

A RUNAWAY.—A span of horses belonging to Mr. Taylor's livery stable, yesterday, got away from a colored man who was holding them, and ran away with the buggy to which they were attached. They had not gone far, however, before they came in contact with a "corner grocery," breaking the pole of the buggy and freeing themselves from the vehicle. At this point, one horse started down First street while the other took another direction. Wedging the pavement, the horse which chose First street took the side-walk which he kept all the way from Morrison to Stark, frightening and scattering the pedestrians in every direction. Nobody, however, was hurt, and the damage to property was not very great.

PASSENGERS FOR PORTLAND.—The passenger list of the steamship Continental was telegraphed on Saturday evening; and as that steamer left San Francisco on the 7th, and may be here any moment, we hasten to publish the list, lest the arrival of the steamer should render it valueless as news. The passengers are, cabin, Col. Williamson, Gen French, M. M Harvey, John Bott, J. P. Goodrich, H. D. Benham and wife, Miss Openheimer, D. B. Hanna, J. T. Best, E. Price, P. Green and wife, Wm. Elliot, Maj Call, Capt Marie, D Sim and wife and 22 children, G. W. Traver, 100 U. S. troops and 20 steerage passengers.

RIOT.—The Street Commissioner has temporarily fastened the gates of the Public Square, for the purpose of protecting the few trees which are still living, from the predatory attacks of cattle. Heretofore, during most of the summer the gates have not served to keep cattle out, and it has been no unusual sight, from time to time, to see a dozen or more cows in the inclosure, browsing at will upon the trees and breaking them down.

EDITORIAL VISITORS.—D M O. Gault, Editor of the Jacksonville Sentinel and W. B. Carter, of the Corvallis Gazette, are in town and we are indebted to each for a call. Mr Gault is just taking a tour through the Willamette Valley for the purpose of enjoying a visit among old friends. Bro. Carter is on some business; but whether in relation to the Gazette, the order of Good Templars, or Yaquina Bay, we are unable to state.

ARRESTED.—Saturday evening, P. Hooper was arrested on complaint for disorderly conduct at the Mammoth Saloon. He was released yesterday morning on bail for his appearance this morning. Albert Johnson, a half-breed was arrested yesterday morning, on the complaint of John Wesley, for an assault with a knife.

CIRCUIT COURT—SHATTUCK, JUDGE.—On Saturday, motions in several cases were filed, but no decision of public interest was rendered.

The jury in the case of Elfelt, Well & Co. vs. H H Snow, returned a verdict in favor of plaintiffs for $6,390.

NAUGHTY OREGONIANS.—The Alcanist says that persons from Oregon are engaged in "selling goods from Oregon, by wholesale without a license," not only defrauding the revenue, but placing the resident merchants at a great disadvantage. The Oregonians "should'nt order."

HELD TO ANSWER FOR FORGERY.—George Henderson had an examination before justice Barney Trainor of East Portland, on Friday, on a charge of forgery, and was held to answer in the sum of $600. We have not heard the specifications contained in the charge

PRACTICE.—This afternoon is the regular evening for practice by the Pioneers. Mr Steele, the Secretary desires us to say that the members are all wanted, on the grounds at half past four o'clock

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Senator, Saturday, Aug 10th: 49 gunnies bacon, 46 boxes apples, 6 bbl bbls produce, 10 boxes do., 1 pkg buggy hubs, 1 horse, 1 case mdse, 1 basket fruit

HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?—Rubber Neck Ties at 25 cents, at Barman Bros', corner Front and Morrison street. Who can beat that?

THE FAMILY DYE COLORS.—Nothing has obtained so wide a reputation, nor one more merited than the Family Dye Colors of Howe & Stevens. The colors include every desirable shade, and are as fadeless as they are beautiful.—Sold by Smith & Davis

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY I T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid-up capital, $100,000. B. M DuBell, President. C. W Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places in Idaho Territory promptly attended to. STATE ITEMS.

The school lands in Benton county remaining unsold, will be offered for sale in Corvallis, August 31st.

The Gazette says that notwithstanding statements to the contrary, there will be good crops in Benton county. It mentions that in the immediate portion of that county, 60 000 bushels will be produced within an area of five miles square.

We have received an catalogue of Willamette University, though we would have been glad had some person favored us with one. If we sang sweetly in no other way, we would be thankful to any friend who would inform us where we can buy one.

The Albany Democrat says Mr Duncan superintendent of the Brownsville Woolen Factory, was badly injured on last Saturday, near that place, by his horse becoming frightened at a new tin bucket from which he was offering it water. The horse ran, Mr D caught at some portion of the harness to stop it and it kicked him, lag the face, knocking him down, and before he could regain his feet the buggy passed over him, inflicting several ugly cuts about the head. No bones were broken, and physicians are of opinion that he will speedily recover.

The Record gives the following description of Rath Lake in the Cascade mountains. The lake is about forty miles from Sweet Home valley, on the summit of the mountains, with the head-waters of McKenzie Fork running through it. At high water this lake is three miles long, by one half mile wide, and it abounds in the largest sized mountain trout. Two fishermen have gone there with a large seine, for the purpose obtaining onlan extensive scale, and supplying the valley in that vicinity with mountain trout. The Three Sisters are visible from the shores of the lake, and the spot presents many attractions

Mr Geo H. Jones, having been gone for a fortnight with his family into the mountains, says a Salem paper, has favored us, on his return, with a bottle of soda water, put up at the Springs, in Linn county, distant seventy miles from here, and fifteen miles from Sweet Home valley, on the Willamette and Des Chutes Wagon Road The Soda Spring water is effervescing cold as ice, taken in the spot, and equal to any manufactured article in excellence. The sample brought us seems to resemble Congress water in taste and in its effects. Many persons are constantly visiting those springs for the benefit of their medicinal properties. Each spring is a kettle hole in the solid rock, with seams through which the effervescing water gushes up. If tightly bottled at the spring, it will burst any common bottle. The water, will, no doubt, be better known and appreciated in due time

Albany is still alive with the quartz excitement. The Democrat says: Captain Humphrey and Messrs John Brandenburg and Charles Monteith returned last Tuesday from a prospecting tour in the Cascade range. They are jubilant with the success of their trip, being satisfied beyond a doubt that they have "struck it rich"—a gold lead, or run, of silver four feet wide, 350 feet long and probably extending a thousand feet into the bowels of the earth—almost to China. Captain Humphrey went immediately to Salem (as the "lead" is in Marion county) and registered their claims, so as to have the "dead wood" on all interlopers. The fortunate claim-holders have sent a few pounds of quartz rock to San Francisco to determine the positive value of the ore, and as soon as they receive the assayer's return they will be ready to "let the cat out," when all can have a show at the treasure of that region.

The Mountaineer of last week has another editorial article on the Branch Mint, vigorously urging its erection at the Dalles. That the Mint will be built at that point if Oregon gets a Mint at all, we sincerely to congratulate and in this view of things there is no citizen of Oregon who would not be glad to have our Dalles friends succeed But the difficulty will be to overcome opposition at Washington. Many Senators, and we believe leading Representatives also, have declared for the policy of building no more Branch Mints; and if it were to do over again it is doubtful whether Nevada and Colorado Branches would be allowed. Therefore we regard the chances of the Dalles for getting the Branch Mint as more than doubtful. It is not wise to ignore the actual facts in the case. Still, if our Dalles friends think the chances of success are worth an effort, they are right in making it, and we believe the people of Portland would not object to lend them any assistance in their power.

PERFECTLY KINDAPTHING.—Such were our feelings as we stopped into the Music and Art Gallery of W. T. SHANAHAN, on First street, a few days since, and listened to the delightful tones and harmony which came from one of Mason & Hamlin's Cabinet Organs. From the soft breathing flute tones to the thundering bass of the pipe organ, all was equally free and sweet. And why is it other makers cannot produce instruments like these? Mason & Hamlin were the first to introduce the Cabinet Organ, and have gained such world-wide notoriety that it requires the work of two large factories to supply the demand for these valuable instruments.

Revelations of the White House.

Some months ago the American public were treated ad nauseam to a three column account of conversations between our Reverend Abbott and the French Emperor, in which conversations the Abbott did the talking and the Emperor was represented as the listener. Inspired by the success of the Yankee dunky clergyman, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial has lately devoted his energies to the production in print of reports of a conversations between himself and Andrew Johnson. In this report, however, the correspondent, profiting by Abbott's blunder, has taken the precaution to introduce occasionally a remark by A. J., and thus it has more the appearance of a conversation than it would otherwise have had. From the jumble of "I said" and "said he" we are enabled to pick out a few observations by His Accidency which have interest enough to justify their reproduction. It appears that the President telegraphed to his honorman, Steedman, that Alexander H. Stephens ought not to be elected to the United States Senate; which interference on the part of the President with the free action of a reconstructed State, sounds very much like one of those "usurpations" and "encroachments upon the rights of States" of which he complains so often and so earnestly in his veto message. It was wrong in Congress to provide that all loyal people should have the right to vote in Georgia, but it was perfectly right for the President to notify the State Legislature that they should not elect a particular person to office! We learn, also, that the "war of races" in the South, is, in the President's view of the case, one of the probabilities of the times.

The President was tortured by his inquisitor on a declaration that he had not yet made up his mind whether he could or ought to send troops to Tennessee to overawe the "Brownlow Militia," and he vehemently declared that Brownlow's government was a despotism, "with the meanest sort of a despot at the head of it." "Some men," he argued, "make even a despotism a respectable sort of a government, but Brownlow can't get up even a decent despotism."

After rigorous efforts, or, as this "Boswell" describes the operation, after using Johnson like an old pump with a dry sucker into which twenty buckets of water have to be poured before it will give out a drop, the correspondent got the President excited about Sheridan, and what was said then we give as we find it recorded:

The President spoke with great warmth and earnestness when he referred to the subject of Sheridan's administration. At times his voice rose high enough for an attendance of five hundred, though I was the only person in the room and was sitting within two feet of him. "Now," said he, "Sheridan says he had to remove Gov. Wells because he was an impediment in the way of reconstruction. He doesn't say how he was an impediment; he doesn't say in what way he had interfered with him in his official duties, but says he removed him because he was an impediment, and removed him because he got along smoothly after he removed him? Has that helped him any? I don't see that it has. And, again, suppose I should displace Wells, how would that obstruct the execution of this law? These are questions which no one, as yet, has attempted to answer.

A little later he said:

"They have said about my putting impediments in the way of the execution of this law. I have done no such thing, and don't intend to. They have spoken of the Attorney General's opinion as an obstruction. That opinion is no such thing. The reasons for it don't assist the execution of this law. It has nothing to do with it."

It was [illegible] Wilson had prepared a bill to [illegible] giving the Military Commanders [illegible] power to remove all civil officers, or, rather, [illegible] offices and substituting the Military commanders to fill them by appointment, reappointment or election.

"Well," said he, "that would help reconstruction at all. The fact is there don't affect the execution of the law one way or the other, and it would be a good deal better to let men have out their term of office and when they run out, order an election to fill them."

I spoke of Gen Sheridan's order and dispatches as insubordinate, and I took as the people of the South ought not to appear as they were doing; and the same state of affairs existing the war, Mr. Hayes had to unconditionally [illegible] the army, and that it was just as if General Meade should [illegible] to Mr Lincoln that if Grant's [illegible] was carried out the Army of the Potomac had soon be surrendered to those of the [illegible]'s [illegible] about it, and the President [illegible] ought to see that encouraging such [illegible] in bringing the office of President into [illegible] matter what they may think of me."

He said nothing whatever against Sheridan, unless what I have just related be viewed as that he did, but I could easily see from his manner that he felt very keenly the attempts of that military [illegible] to bring him and the office into contempt. Just here perhaps I may as well state that I have very good authority for setting at rest all gossip on the subject of Sheridan's removal. Nothing of the kind will be attempted; and if any of the "Generals commanding in the South [illegible] political promotion they must seek it in some other way than by trying to get the President to do it at their request. He won't do it.

With the exception of an expression by the President of a desire "don't-care-a-tivenss" [illegible] the two last named cases, this is all that the [illegible]'s correspondent, after months of Boswellism, could get out of His Highness was able to get out of the President, who shortly after bowed him out. Further the case of letters put an account of his conversation at the White House, with the [illegible] his servants, to [illegible] the form of a letter, and through the columns of the Commercial the whole world stands advised that the two great men have been under fire together.

A Lion Attacks his Keeper and Attempts to Tear him in Pieces.

[From the Rochester [illegible] Democrat, July 6.]

The immense audience assembled under the auspices of Messrs Thayer & Noyes, Falls Field, on Thursday evening were treated to a performance which they had not anticipated, and which everybody present will gladly have foregone. The entertainments had passed off to the entire satisfaction of the spectators, and, as a crowning act, the large cage containing two lions and two lionesses was drawn out in the ring, when Mr. Charles White, the keeper, entered it to exhibit his control over the ferocious beasts. The animals are full grown, young and active—in short the best specimens of the species we ever saw—and one of the lions is remarkably wild and intractable. Mr. White, however, having full confidence in his power to control them, entered with entire fearlessness and proceeded to put the beasts through their paces. All went well for a time, but at length one of the lions began to be fractious and disobedient. Upon Mr. White struck him two or three smart with a whip. Suddenly the animal made a spring and seized Mr. White by the shoulder with his teeth, shaking him as a dog would a rat, and finally throwing him on his back upon the floor of the cage. A thrill of horror passed through the assemblage of spectators. Ladies screamed and fainted; many people hastened to leave the entertainment, some with terror-blanched countenances awaited in silence the result; and others rushed into the ring, vaguely and vainly hoping to rescue the adventurous lion tamer from the fate which apparently awaited him.

Most while Mr. White quietly awaited the issue. He was helpless for the moment, the lion, with both fangs upon his breast, holding him down and ramming his shoulder within those terrible jaws. The angry growl of the ferocious beast were frightful, and he was evidently determined to make the most of his opportunity. Mr. Noyes, one of the proprietors of the circus, happened fortunately to be near, and seizing an iron bar, dashed the end of it against the lion's head with such force that the animal was surprised into relaxing his hold. In an instant Mr. White had regained his feet and his control over the occupants of the cage. With a few well directed blows of his whip he reasserted his supremacy, and the recently victorious king of beasts was reduced to submission.

It would naturally be supposed that after such an experience Mr. White would be disposed to part company with his dangerous companions, as soon as possible, but he is not made of the kind to yield a point. He was terribly injured, the tooth of the lion having penetrated the shoulder deeply and lacerated the flesh in a shocking manner, besides crushing the bones so as to render the left arm almost useless. Despite his suffering and the obvious ill will of the lion, he proceeded with the performance to the end. Luckily the rage of the other lion and the lionesses, had not been excited, and he had only one real enemy to fear. He compelled the savage animals to go through with their acts as usual, and concluded by feeding them a quantity of raw beef, handing the meat in pieces to each animal in turn. He then quietly left the cage, and not till then was any one made aware of the serious character of his hurts.

Mr. White did not faint away, as one of our contemporaries asserts, unless he did so after he left the arena. He was conveyed to the National Hotel in a carriage, and now lies there in a critical condition. He is under the care of Dr. Whitlock, who has reduced the fractured bones and hopes to restore the patient to a comparatively sound condition. In a previous encounter with the same lion Mr. White was dreadfully lacerated in the breast by the claws of the powerful animal. The beast is of a peculiarly sullen disposition, and has compelled his keeper to discipline him vigorously on a number of occasions.

Ramie—A New Substitute for Cotton.

The New Orleans Picayune gives the following account of a new plant:

A new plant has been added to the resources of our tropical and semi-tropical region—a new textile, which will furnish the world with clothing and the means of knowledge. We have seen lately long skeins of cotton-like fiber—cotton-like in whiteness, softness and fineness, but much stronger, which is now produced at the rate of five crops per year in the State of Vera Cruz, Mexico, where it has been cultivated for five years by a Belgian naturalist and botanist, who went there to pursue his favorite studies and occupations in a soil and climate which favor them.

This plant, called the ramie, is a native of Java, was introduced thence into the Jardin des Plantes at Paris, by some French savan in 1814; and was regarded then as simply exhibiting the wonderful advantages of the tropics, being too delicate for open air culture in cold climes. But having been planted and tried in warmer climates than that of France, yet not so equatorial as that of Java, it has been found to do well.

It is due to M. Bonto Raezl, formerly chief of the Horticultural Institute of Belgium, now of Santacomprom, San Andros, State of Vera Cruz, Mexico, that we can now pronounce it a naturalized plant of this continent, and to his present visit to this city will speedily owe its introduction into the field culture of the Gulf States, to which it will permanently pertain.

The ramie (the Japanese name) is a plant like hemp, contains in its stalk the fiber for which it is raised, and which is grown like sugar cane, from being planted in lengths of from its stubble; with the advantage over the stubble of the cane, that each succeeding year it grows better, and that in Cuba and Lower Mexico it will furnish five and here at least three cuttings in the year.

By a new process, and some simple machinery invented by M. Raezl, the linf can be prepared from the stalks, taken fresh from the ground, in twenty-four hours. We all know that months of labor and the entire discoloring of the fiber follows the treatment of the ordinary process of flax and hemp, while the ramie comes out white, clean, pure and unhurt,

Eight hundred pounds of lint to the acre is to be expected from each, cutting of full growth in fair land. The culture is similar to that of cane; but the plant when once set is hard to eradicate, grows vigorously and defies the influence of grass or rival plants, cultivation it only needed to promote its growth. When ripe it should be cut, but neglect to do this causes no special damage, so that it may wait days or weeks the will of the free republicans of Mexico and the Union. The fiber is long, strong, and fine; the plant easy to raise and hardy in a southern latitude, and its preparation for market is simple and cheap in cost.

Under these circumstances we may safely pronounce that the ramie will, at an early day, take a high rank among our staples.

Will procure Pensions for Officers of the Army and Navy, Soldiers, Seamen and Marines, who have been disabled by wounds received, or who contracted a disease while in the line of duty; and if any of the above were killed in battle or have died from said causes, the following are entitled to them in their order, viz: Widow, Children (under 16 years of age), Father and Mother and Sisters, if dependent upon their deceased son or brother for support, either in whole or in part.

The Pension Laws apply to all wars in which the United States have been engaged.

Unusual facilities are afforded me for the collection of these claims, having reliable and competent assistants at Washington, D. C., and New York, who have been in the business for the past fifteen years and give them their sole attention.

All communications asking advice or information should contain postage, or whenever of a character requiring it, should be accompanied with a reasonable fee.
